

Your role in our future

The Royal Botanic Gardens Melbourne has provided great enjoyment to the people of Melbourne, as well as millions of other visitors, for over 150 years.

As a not-for-profit institution, the Gardens relies on generous support from the community to expand its plant collections, improve and beautify both Royal Botanic Gardens Melbourne and Cranbourne, enlarge research and conservation programs, and secure its position as Australia's pre-eminent botanic garden.

I invite people who share our vision to make an exceptional commitment to ensure a secure financial future for this remarkable institution.

Give to the Director's Circle and become part of the life of the Royal Botanic Gardens Melbourne and ensure its vitality for future generations to enjoy.

Dr Philip Moors
Patron, Director's Circle
Director, Royal Botanic Gardens

Our collections, quality of scientific work and extent of community involvement place the Gardens among the most important botanic gardens in the world.

The Director's Circle

The Director's Circle was established in 1999 to honour and recognise donors who make annual unrestricted gifts of $1,000 or more to support the Royal Botanic Gardens Melbourne. Since that time, the Director's Circle has continued to grow and now includes well over one hundred loyal supporters.

The Director's Circle enables people with a passion for the Gardens to assist in ensuring the continuing success and development of this remarkable institution loved by generations of Victorians.

The greater part of a gift to the Director's Circle is invested in the Gardens' own Foundation - which provides supplementary funding for the future - whilst the remainder provides funding for immediate projects.

All donations to the Royal Botanic Gardens Melbourne are fully tax-deductible.

Your Support

All Director's Circle supporters are recognised in Director's Circle publications. You will be invited to enjoy behind-the-scenes tours, exhibitions, presentations and supporter parties. You will also have the opportunity to meet our expert horticultural, scientific and education staff.

Please choose your level of annual support as an Acacia or Banksia donor:

ACACIA - $4,000

The Acacia, commonly known as Wattle, is Australia's national floral emblem. The many species of Acacia represent vigour, abundance and success.

Acacia donors enjoy additional Director's Circle recognition, including attending the special Director's Dinner.

BANKSIA - $1,000

Named in honour of Sir Joseph Banks, the Banksia is one of Australia's most widely appreciated plants. It represents history and pioneering spirit and the Royal Botanic Gardens' central part in Australian botanical history.

I wish to begin/continue my support of the Director's Circle at the Royal Botanic Gardens Melbourne through my annual gift.
