

Royal Botanic Gardens
Melbourne

Consultancy Service
for public gardens and landscapes

Cultivating excellence in landscape and garden management

Drawing on our knowledge and experience based on management of the world-renowned Royal Botanic Gardens Melbourne, we provide expert advice and consultancy in the following areas:

- Landscape and garden management
- Living plant collection planning and development
- Urban greening programs
- Plant selection
- Tree management
- Garden design
- Irrigation efficiency and management
- Visitor information and interpretive signage

Victoria's landscapes and gardens are facing challenging conditions.

As communities become more aware of the environmental and social benefits of public gardens and landscapes, it is more important than ever to get the right advice about managing these valuable assets.

The RBG Consultancy Service is led by Richard Barley, Director, Melbourne Gardens. Richard is a qualified horticulturalist with almost 30 years' experience. He has provided guidance, support and direction to public gardens over many years, in addition to teaching roles at Burnley College (The University of Melbourne).

Commercial arrangements

The RBG Consultancy Service provides advice on a fee-for-service basis, either as a whole sum for a project or hourly rates for continuing advice.
